

ByBox appoints new head of innovation

ByBox has further strengthened its management team with the appointment of Mike Boxwell as Head of Innovation. It is a completely new role and one which reflects the company's commitment to innovation and technology. With a background in IT, Mike has a long track record in the hand held scanner market with particular expertise in the courier and distribution industry. Prior to joining ByBox Mike previously ran computer manufacturer Hand Held Products in the UK and also set up and ran Littlefoot which provides tracking and proof of delivery systems for major parcel carriers. Customers include La Poste, Royal Mail, DX, Amtrak, GeoPost and Business Post. He has a strong knowledge of the parts distribution market having worked alongside ByBox for a number of years to provide hand held scanning solutions and will bring a valuable skill set to the already successful operation. In his new role Mike will be involved in developing and managing a new scanning platform for the ByBox network of electronic boxes whilst at the same time having specific responsibility for projects involving technology and innovation.
